Wisconsin's Kiln Operations Scott Bowe, Jim Whipple, Terry Mace, and Alicia Bütz

Wisconsin has more than 120 companies operating lumber dry kiln facilities. In addition, numerous small hobby kilns are scattered throughout the state. Kiln dried lumber plays an important role in Wisconsin's manufacturing economy by adding value to green lumber and providing a raw material for the secondary wood products manufacturing industry. This bulletin contains the most recent update of kiln operations in Wisconsin. The companies and the services that they provide are listed alphabetically.

For a complete listing of products and services offered by Wisconsin's forest products industry, please contact the author for the Wisconsin Primary Wood Using Industry Directory – 2002 and the Wisconsin Secondary Wood Using Industry Directory – 2002. These industry directories can also be found online at <http://forest.wisc.edu/directories.htm>.
